Alisdair Creanor appointed CEO Cambodia

ANZ today announced the appointment of Alisdair Creanor as CEO Cambodia reporting to Dennis Hussey, CEO Vietnam and Head of Greater Mekong region.

In his current role as Head of Divisional Execution, Mr Creanor has managed a number of central functions across ANZ's global network. He also played a leading role in driving the transformation agenda across the division over the past two years.

Mr Creanor brings to his new role more than a decade of experience in banking, and prior to that a variety of business leadership roles including running his own internet company. Before joining ANZ, he worked at Lloyds in New York and London in positions across Strategy and Performance, Wholesale Banking and Equity Capital Markets.

Mr. Hussey said: "Alisdair's deep strategic knowledge and strong networks at ANZ, combined with his international banking experience, will be extremely valuable to the team in Cambodia. The Greater Mekong plays an important role in ANZ's ambition to be the best bank for trade and capital flows within the region and our home markets."

Mr Creanor will commence his new role in November 2017, based in Phnom Penh.
