Confidence upbeat

- Consumer confidence rose 1.4% last week, with most subindices except 'future economic conditions' recording an uptick.
- 'Current finances' rose by 3.7%, while 'future finances' rose by 1.2%.
- 'Current economic conditions' rose by 0.5%, while 'future economic conditions' declined by 3.2%. The fall in 'future economic conditions' came after a large rise of 4.1% last week.
- 'Time to buy a household item' rose by 5.3% last week. The four-week moving average for 'inflation expectations' was steady at 3.3%, while the weekly reading was unchanged at 3.2%.

ANZ-Roy Morgan Consumer Confidence and inflation expectations

Last weekend (12-13 Sep)	Weekly change, %	Four-week average	Monthly average since 1990	Inflation expectations (four-week ma)
92.4	1.4%	91.6	112.6	3.3%

This weekly ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence Rating is based on 1,511 interviews conducted online and over the telephone on the weekend. Not seasonally adjusted. Further data history on page 6.

ANZ Head of Australian Economics, David Plank, commented:

Consumer confidence rose for the second consecutive week. It was weaker in Melbourne, though, dropping more than 5% from the prior week. This suggests the announcement of the long path out of lockdown restrictions negatively impacted sentiment. Confidence was also weaker in Sydney, dropping more than 3% from the previous week. Confidence was higher across regional Victoria, and is now back above the neutral level of 100 in Perth. Across the sub-indices, the 'time to buy a major household item' index is above the neutral level of 100 for the first time since end June. It joins 'future finances' above the neutral level. As discussions pick up around the October budget, we will be watching for signs that talk about tax cuts and job creation measures may impact consumer confidence.
