ANZ Senior Economist, Adelaide Timbrell, commented:

Consumer confidence increased 0.4% last week as sentiment improved sharply in NSW (+4.5%) and Victoria (+1.1%) despite the rising number of Omicron cases in both states. The much lower hospitalisation rate compared to the Delta wave probably helped. Confidence in Queensland dropped 0.5%, Western Australia saw a drop of 3.7% and confidence in South Australia dropped 3.4%. Though all these states have stronger confidence than two weeks ago. The outlook about personal financial conditions improved, mostly due to a sharp increase in 'finances compared to a year ago'. Household inflation expectations rose to a recent high of 5.0%.
