Confidence in financial conditions rises

- Consumer confidence increased 1.5% last week, driven primarily by the boost in confidence in financial conditions. The rest of the subindices registered mixed results.
- ‘Current financial conditions’ rose by 4.6%, with only 23% of responders voting that they are ‘worse off’ financially than this time last year. This is the lowest figure for this indicator since February 2020. ‘Future financial conditions’ were up 3.3%.
- In contrast, ‘current economic conditions’ fell by 0.8%. However, ‘future economic conditions’ gained 1.9%.
- ‘Time to buy a major household item’ declined 0.7%. ‘Weekly inflation expectations’ increased by 0.1ppt to 3.7%, keeping the four-week moving average steady at 3.7%.

ANZ-Roy Morgan Consumer Confidence and inflation expectations

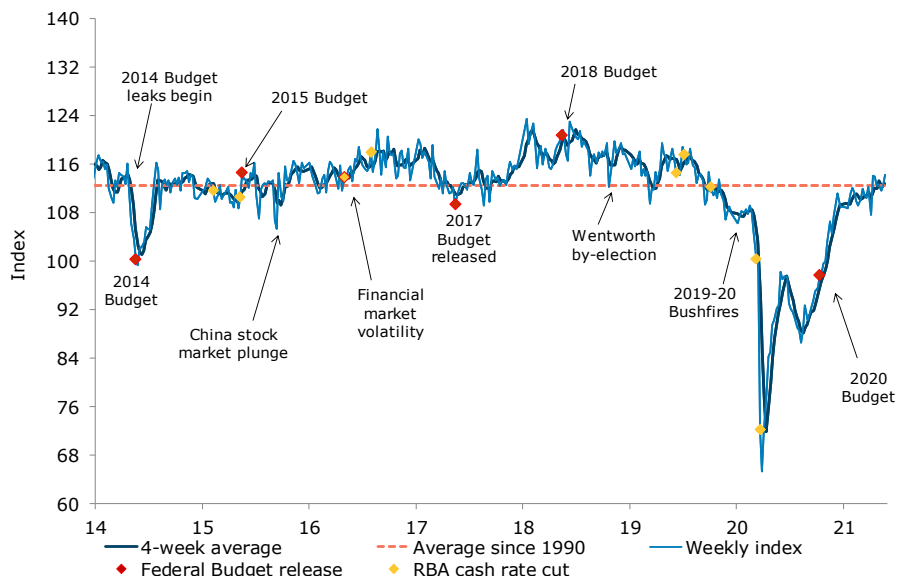

Last weekend (22-23 May)	Weekly change, %	Four-week average	Monthly average since 1990	Inflation expectations (four-week ma)
114.2	1.5%	112.8	112.6	3.7%

This weekly ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence Rating is based on 1,540 interviews conducted online and over the telephone on the weekend. Not seasonally adjusted. Further data history on page 6.

ANZ Head of Australian Economics, David Plank, commented:

Consumer confidence gained 1.5% last week. The gain was driven in a large part by the improvement in the ‘financial conditions’. The labour market numbers might have had a positive influence, with unemployment dropping to 5.5% and underemployment dropping to 7.8%. Consumer confidence may be challenged by the emergence of new COVID-19 cases in Melbourne. However, we know the impact on sentiment is temporary if the outbreak is quickly brought under control.
