Inflation expectations return to recent high

- Consumer confidence was practically unchanged rising only 0.2% last week. Confidence dropped in Victoria and NSW as daily COVID cases remained quite elevated in both states.
- 'Weekly inflation expectations' rose 0.2ppt, returning to its recent high of 4.7%. The four-week moving average rose 0.1ppt to 4.6%.
- The subindices registered mixed results. 'Current financial conditions' dropped 3.0%, while 'future financial conditions' gained 1.9%.
- 'Current economic conditions' improved 2.2% and 'future economic conditions' were up 1.6%.
- 'Time to buy a major household item' dropped 1.6%.

ANZ-Roy Morgan Consumer Confidence and inflation expectations

Last weekend (18-19 Sep)	Weekly change, %	Four-week average	Monthly average since 1990	Inflation expectations (four-week ma)
103.3	0.2%	102.1	112.5	4.6%

This weekly ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence Rating is based on 1,489 interviews conducted online and over the telephone on the weekend. Not seasonally adjusted. Further data history on page 6.

ANZ Head of Australian Economics, David Plank, commented:

Consumer confidence barely moved last week, rising just 0.2%. Last week's labour market data revealed some softness in the economy with employment falling by 146k in August due to the prolonged lockdowns. This might have dampened sentiment, which fell 4.9% in NSW and 1.1% in Victoria. But confidence rose 7.3% in Queensland and 6.7% in South Australia, making up for the fall. Falling COVID case numbers in NSW plus Victoria's plan for opening may boost confidence over the coming week. A notable development was the jump in inflation expectations to 4.7% for a second time this month. This could be due to the increase in retail petrol prices in the past two weeks.
