ANZ Head of Australian Economics, David Plank, commented:

Inflation expectations rose 0.1ppt to 5.1% last week, its highest since December 2014. With petrol prices at record highs during the past few weeks the lift in inflation expectations is not surprising. Consumer confidence dropped 1.4% despite the easing of COVID restrictions in NSW and the imminent reopening of international borders to tourists. The expectations of higher inflation might have had a dampening effect on overall sentiment. Confidence dropped by 5.6% in NSW, 0.7% in QLD, 0.8% in SA and 2.8% in WA, while it increased in Victoria by 2.9%.

Confidence down 1.4%
