ANZ Senior Economist, Adelaide Timbrell, commented:

ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence increased last week, to its highest since the last week of April 2023. The increase in confidence was driven by major gains in the 'future financial conditions' ahead of an expected pause from the RBA. Still, confidence remains low as households grapple with ongoing high inflation and restrictive interest rates, which is also reflected in falling retail sales. Among the housing cohorts, confidence jumped across all groups as it rose 3.1pts for outright homeowners, 4.5pts for those paying off their homes and 3.4pts for those renting.
