ANZ Senior Economist, Adelaide Timbrell, commented:

Consumer confidence rose by 0.9pts to 86.8 last week. After a jump at the start of the year, confidence has remained relatively stable over January, within a band of 1.8pts. While confidence remains well below the neutral level of 100, its four-week average is at its highest level since June 2022. Household inflation expectations dropped 0.6pts despite the news last week that annual inflation hit a 32-year high in Q4 2022. This is a signal that household inflation expectations remain somewhat anchored despite accelerating inflation through 2022.
