ANZ Senior Economist, Adelaide Timbrell, commented:

Consumer confidence dropped to its lowest level since April 2020, after the RBA announced a 25bp increase in the cash rate in March. The sharpest decline in consumer confidence was in the current finances subindex, which dropped to its lowest since 2001. Confidence about future finances declined to its sixth-lowest since the COVID outbreak. Inflation expectations also increased post-hike, by 0.4pts. Confidence among those paying off their mortgages increased 1.7pts after a sharp drop last week and are still the least confident of the housing cohorts. Those who own their home outright and renters reported sharp decreases of 4.1pts and 7.9pts respectively.

Consumer confidence fell 2.9pts
