ANZ-Roy Morgan Consumer Confidence and inflation expectations

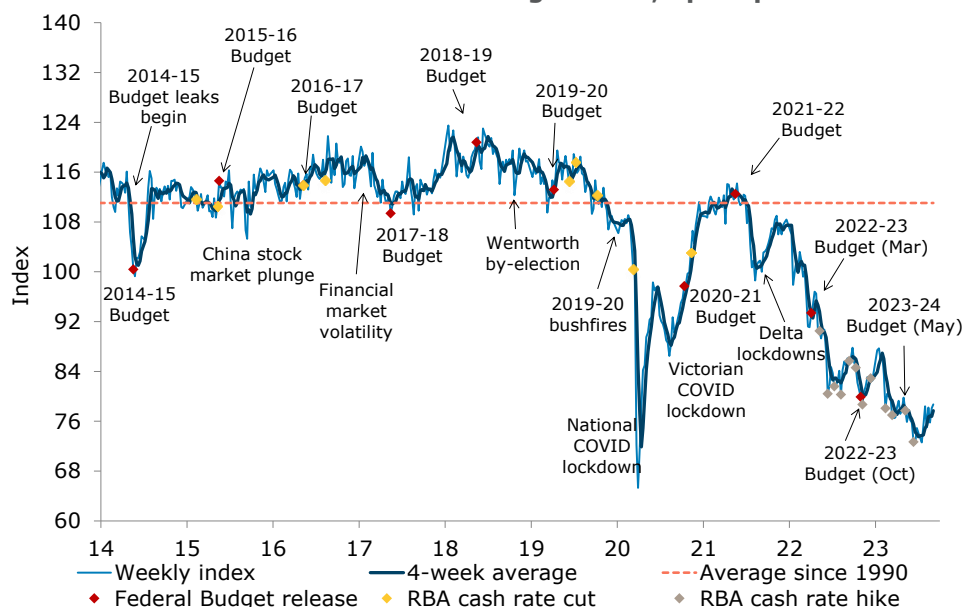

Last week (28 Aug–3 Sept)	Weekly change, pts	Four-week average	Monthly average since 1990	Inflation expectations (four-week ma)
78.7	0.6	77.7	111.1	5.3%

The weekly ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence Rating is based on 1,508 interviews conducted online and over the telephone during the week to Sunday*. Not seasonally adjusted. Further data history on page 6.

ANZ Senior Economist, Adelaide Timbrell, commented:

ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence rose to 78.7, its highest level since April 2023. The encouraging July monthly CPI indicator print which showed falling annual inflation likely supported the increase in confidence. In particular, government rebates which reduced the net price increase of electricity from 19.2% m/m to 6% m/m may have helped household financial confidence. The start of what we think is an extended pause from the RBA could also be flowing through. The four-week average confidence level for outright owners is steadily increasing while those paying off their mortgage are seeing confidence stagnate at a lower level than renters and outright owners.

Consumer confidence rose second straight week, up 0.6pts
